HEMEROCALLIS

1952

Daylilies are justly the most popular summer garden perennial. By choosing early and late bloomers the season can be extended from spring until late fall.

They are of the easiest culture, requiring no certain soil type, but will reward one richly for plenty of nourishment and moisture. They will grow in shade but need sun for at least part of the day for good performance and do even better in full sun. Since they do not require frequent division they should be spaced from two to three feet to allow for increase in size of clumps. Spread the roots and cover with about an inch of soil. Well rotted manure or compost with a handful of bone meal mixed in the hole before planting will insure good growth.

Daylilies require time to become established and perform typically so do not be hasty in your judgment the first year. When undisturbed for three years they can then be critically appraised.

You will find membership in THE HEMEROCALLIS SOCIETY of much help. Dues are $3.00 per year. Send membership to George E. Lenington, Secretary, THE HEMEROCALLIS SOCIETY, % Box 139, Kansas City 10, Missouri. You will receive the YEARBOOK and Newsletters full of valuable information.

TERMS—Cash with Order. Orders amounting to $3.00 sent postpaid. Under that include 25c for postage and packing. Stock is state inspected and guaranteed true to name. Prices are for strong single divisions. Three plants for the price of two will be sent for any kind priced below $1.00. We do not substitute without your permission.
